

Questions & Answers

Q1: What is Tactical Training, Inc. (T²)?

A1: Tactical Training, Inc. is a woman-owned business founded in 2007 by Fred and Julie Kolberg. T² provides training to federal, state and local government agencies across the United States of America.

Q2: Who are Fred and Julie Kolberg?

A2: CEO Fred Kolberg is a retired U.S. Navy SEAL 18 Delta Special Forces Medic and a Master Training Specialist. He has been training forces in Combat Trauma skills since retiring in 2003. In addition to combat medicine, Mr. Kolberg excelled in other skills including Tactical Field Operations, Weapons Expertise, Tactical Evasive Driving, and Close Quarters Battle (CQB).

President Julie Kolberg has more than 20 years of administrative and financial business experience. She is responsible for the management and daily operations of T². Mrs. Kolberg is a Certified Mouflage Specialist and integrates the simulated pyrotechnics into the culmination exercises.

Q3: What does Tactical Training offer?

A3: The three main areas are:

- Threat Assessments – topics include access control, contingency planning, domestic terrorism, perimeter security, lighting, special events security planning, workplace violence, terrorism in the school, weapons/explosive detection, IED, counter sniper and active shooter.
 - Red Cell Operations – our skilled professionals have the ability to penetrate through your access control systems, infiltrate your facility and test your security plan's Standard Operating Procedures. An after-action review with complete recommendation and improvement list will be provided.
- Readiness Exercises – our team is experienced in the areas of emergency response epidemiology, emergency medicine, public health, healthcare administration and weapons of mass destruction counter-proliferation operations.
- Language and Culture Training – provides instructional language techniques allowing students to transliterate and speak at basic, intermediate or advanced levels; teaches languages including Pashto, Dari, Greek, Russian and French; incorporates country specific cultural skills needed to establish and build proper rapport as specified for a client's particular goal; includes instructor's personal experiences and sell as industry-specific research and knowledge of current events; and implements mission training which includes integrating interpreter support and social interaction.

Q4: Who benefits from these services and training?

A4: Those employed by and communities surrounding COMES and OCONUS corporations, oil drilling and nuclear sites as well as chemical and power generation plants will benefit from the services provided by Tactical Training.

Q5: What does a typical training include?

A5: Students experience classroom instruction and practical hands-on skill stations which enhances muscle memory. They learn the most expedient way to accomplish the task at hand in tactical situations.

Final training exercise (FTX) packages can be added at the end of the course. These include and are not limited to day and night practicals and scenarios with live fire, tactical driving, simulated machine gun, RPG, mortars, claymores, IEDs and smoke.

Q6: What credentials do T²'s expert instructors have?

A6: Our instructors are former or retired U.S. military maintaining Secret and above security clearance, and professionals that work in local and state level positions. All personnel have past performance with DoD, Special Operations and Department of Homeland Security.

Q7: What is the difference between Trauma Training FX & Tactical Training?

A7: Trauma Training FX addresses life-saving medical techniques. Tactical Training provides threat assessments, readiness exercises and language and cultural training.

Q8: Can clients ask T² to provide Trauma Training and Tactical Training during one scheduled timeframe?

A8: Yes. Please call 757.335.2079 for more information.

Q9: How much does training cost?

A9: Training package costs differ depending on the unique needs of each client or individual. Please contact info@t2training.com for a quote.

Q10: How do I schedule or register for training?

A10: Please contact info@t2training.com.

Q11: Why should my team and I have T²'s IFAKs (Individual First Aid Kits)?

A11: After not being satisfied with the numerous different IFAKs Mr. Kolberg used while in military service, he and Mrs. Kolberg decided to patent a user friendly system including the most critical supplies. This kit can easily be opened with one hand and carried on your belt or in front aiding you and perhaps saving your own life.

Q12: Where can I find out more about Tactical Training?

A12: Visit www.t2training.com for up-to-date information or email info@t2training.com.